

URGENCI is looking for a Learning Designer to join its team!

The growth of activities has led to URGENCI recruiting a Learning Designer to develop and coordinate our online learning activities together with other training needs.

URGENCI is the international network of all forms of regional and Local Solidarity-based Partnerships for Agroecology (LSPAs), of which Community Supported Agriculture (CSA) is the best-known iteration. We bring together citizens, small-scale food producers, consumers, activists and researchers representing LSPA networks and initiatives in over 40 countries. Education, in a broad sense, is the core activity of the network: we have been creating a solid pan-European and global community by facilitating the internationalisation of the initiatives through sharing experiences and educational materials.

We are looking for a Learning Designer to

- Design online learning activities for URGENCI's education platform.
- Oversee our training and education methodology approach.
- Design learning curricula for various training programmes on a range of topics.
- Produce learning materials and support for these activities.
- Develop our uptake strategy for them.
- Facilitate trainings.

For this mission we are offering

- A full-time position on a 6-month temporary contract with the perspective of consolidating the position on a longer-term basis.
- The possibility for remote working or joining one of our offices, either in Caen in France or Heidelberg in Germany.
- Opportunities for regular travel within Europe.
- A dynamic work environment with a small team, working in tandem with our General Secretary and Project Manager.
